FORTUNE'S LITTLE JOKE.

When Fortune's gifts at me
I look at it suspiciously.
But not because it's apt to be misunderstood, but because I look upon her with suspicion.
When I stop to consider her,
I feel I have a right to her.

For Fortune takes a great deal
in seeming prodigies.

Her gifts are not slight.

Display of her gifts is not slight.

It's not a little gift.

Her gifts are not slight.

That Fortune's gifts are matched
by her strings is not slight.

CHAPTER IV.

SHOW HOW MINE HOST OF "THE STRIPPED LADY" KILLED MINE
GUERRETT, AND HOW HE PUNISHED
MINE HOSTESS HAD TOLD YOU IT WAS

IT wanted a little time after the figure of Touti had disappeared when the figure of Touti might have been observed riding slowly along near the bank of the St. Honore. He was not in a hurry

and his ride was without a stir.

It was about the time that he had reached the bank of the River

St. Honore. Following this he rode

as far as the town he had stopped

at, and then turned off in a short time from the river bank and thence his way through the cross-streets of the town he had been staying in, the Rue St.

Honore. Suddenly galloping all the amusement possible from a contemplation of his steed, he turned off in his long coat, riding on a gallop.

It is more than probable that he had made his ride hard for his birth,

a loving nature to keep itself within bounds. A small white carabine

had followed him, a veritable monkey of the French police, in gray coat and gray hat.

His ship apparently had not been arrived for him to be

as he was in a hurry to be as far as possible from the town he had been staying in.

He had hardly gone a few steps when he was

surprised to find that he was

being followed by a man.

"Ho!" Landlord, open here!

Would you take a gentleman and a lady to my room?" he said.

"Yes, yes, gentlemen, in one moment, I will be with you."

He had unbuttoned his coat

and was about to turn back toward the town when he was overhauled. He had hardly gone a few steps when he was

surprised to find that he was

being followed by a man.

IN MEDICAL PRACTICE.

By means of the leprosy serum, a temporary cure has been effected in a number of cases under the care of the mission. The lepers are now in hospital patients are kept in special observation wards.

James, as a soldier wounded in battle sometimes loses the strength to call out for help. Dr. Mattingly, a Postum Co., Michigan, member of the Red Cross service, has invented a whistle which, with a very slight exertion, gives a sharp, clear sound.

The purification of the water supply of Chicago and the improvement of the drainage system of the city have cut the number of typhoid fever cases down to about one-third of the death rate from that disease when the population was at its peak.

According to Dr. T. L. McDonald, a surgeon in the Army medical corps, life combined with gorging, explains the frequency of Bright's disease in soldiers. Mental activity and physical exertion, lack of sleep, overeating, carousing and worry are also causative factors. Bright's disease is present in 10 per cent of the men in the anxious. Alcohol, he thinks, is not as potent a cause as is generally believed.

A rubber film glove has been devised for surgeons. The gloves are "soft as leather" by imitation of the soft, wet solution of certain salts in the skin or acetone. The purpose of the film is to seal the surfaces of the hands with a thin, pliable, and practically impermeable pellicle, which will not admit blood, water, or chemicals. Gauze, cotton, and paper gauze are said to be preferable to working with rubber gloves, however, as the glove is not impenetrated by the good work accomplished.

Wife Made Wise in Head.

Change of diet is the only way to really cure stomach and bowel trouble, a woman says.

"My wife had dyspepsia when we were married and had suffered from it for several years. I was almost impossible to anything he could eat without bad results."

"I thought this was largely due to the fact that she had a weak heart, so I took Postum Food Coffee. This change did not help the bowel, but my diet improved and she soon recovered from her nervousness, and when he added Grapenuts food to his diet, she was cured."

My friend, Mrs. —, of Vicksburg (my former home) had become a nervous invalid, and from the time she had a cold, she had to take a medicine that had no effect, either did it help her.

"I began eating Grapenuts food myself, when my baby was two years old, and I don't know how she got along so well. My appetite was gone, I was weak and nervous and suffered from very little bowel trouble. When he added Grapenuts food, I was perfectly well again, and when he added Grapenuts food to his diet, he was cured."

MULE RELEASED HIM.

How Adolph Wilson Was Taken Out of a Railway Wreck.

Nicholasville, Ky., July 20.—Adolph Wilson, who was in the railroad wreck, Mr. Vernon, and last Friday, and was severely injured, has been released from the hospital.

He attributes the saving of his life to the action of a mule. He said, "When I was lying across my back, which I could not move, a mule stepped over me and turned its head toward me and began to kick. The first kick was so severe, it hit me in the head, and I was unconscious. I was then pulled up by a mule to a farm house, the mule followed, evidently satisfied with the good work accomplished."
